MASIL 2019

HSRW - I²R Workshop

Multi Modal Assistive Systems

International Workshop MASIL

Date: 28. - 29. March 2019
Room: 04 01 305

Rhine-Waal University of Applied Sciences (HSRW)
Friedrich-Heinrich-Allee 25
47475 Kamp-Lintfort, Germany

Call for paper:

After the workshop we will publish a conference report with your paper contributions (approximately at the end of May 2019) as an Open Access document via the eCollection side of the library of Bielefeld University, Germany (see: http://biecoll.ub.uni-bielefeld.de/index.php?la=en). It will get a DOI so that you can cite the papers accordingly. Additionally, there will be an official download side provided by the library where people can download the paper and conference reports. In order to prepare this edition we are calling for 200-word abstracts on topics related to static and mobile Assistive Systems. Possible topics include, but are not limited to:

- New human centered approaches to AT
- Cognitive Components for AT
- General Approaches to AT
- Natural forms of Human-Computer Interaction
- Evaluation standards for AT
- Open-Source approaches to AT

Preliminary papers will be peer-viewed by at least two members of an international program committee. Word and LaTex templates for the submissions are now available on the workshop website (www.hochschule-rhein-waal.de/de/news/workshop-masil).

We set up a conference via the Easy Chair conference management system where you can upload your submissions. The address is https://easychair.org/conferences/?conf=masil2019. There you can upload your 200 word abstract and your preliminary as well as camera ready paper in April and May.

We are looking forward to receiving your submissions and to welcome you to Kamp-Lintfort at the end of March 2019 !

Important Dates:

- March 27th, 2019: Submission of 200 words abstract (if you have not done so yet)
