The Rhine-Waal University of Applied Sciences in Kleve and Kamp-Lintfort offers an innovative, international environment combined with first-rate teaching in interdisciplinary Bachelor and Master's degree courses, taught mainly in English. It is strong in conducting research in disciplines such as technology, natural sciences and social sciences. More than 6,000 students have already enrolled at the Rhine-Waal University of Applied Sciences.

The Lower Rhine region with its attractive countryside is in the direct vicinity of the Rhine-Ruhr conurbation and the Netherlands, while at the same time being located at the heart of Europe, with two University Campuses easily accessible from all over the world via the three airports of Amsterdam/Schiphol, Düsseldorf Airport and Weeze.

We are looking for support for the faculty of Life Sciences, Kleve campus, and would like to fill the following vacancy as soon as possible:

Reference number 18/F2/16
Scientific Assistant (m/f), TV-L EG 13, limited contract for two years, part time with 75 % of the average weekly working hours of a full time employee.

Your tasks:

- Preparation, execution and post-processing of lectures with reference to health economics (i.a. in the modules “Health economics”, “European health systems and –policy”, “Data management and demography”) as well as exercises in the fields of economics and accounting in the English and German language in the Bachelor study-courses of the Faculty
- Coordinating and supporting projects of students with regard to health economics in the bachelor study-courses “Bio Science and Health, B.Sc.” and “Qualität, Umwelt, Sicherheit und Hygiene, B.Sc.” as well as in the master study-course “Gesundheitswissenschaften und Management, M.Sc.”
- Developing independently teaching materials in coordination with the coordinator and the head of the study course
- Co-mentoring of Bachelor and Master theses

Your profile:

- A completed degree above-average in the field of health economics respectively economics with the focal point on health
- Practical knowledge of methods of applied statistics and knowledge of the common statistic tools
- Proven experience in lecturing, didactical skills and the readiness to take further educational training
- High level of independence, sense of responsibility and capacity of teamwork
- Profound German and English skills (corresponding to C1-Level of the European reference frame)
- Pleasure in working with international students and in a intercultural environment
Those applicants, whose native tongue is not German, shall at least have basic knowledge of the German language.

The Rhine-Waal University of Applied Sciences promotes the professional development of women. Applications from women are therefore explicitly welcomed. In areas where women are not adequately represented, they shall be given preferential consideration when offering the same suitability, capability and professional achievements as men according to the Equal Opportunities Act of North Rhine-Westphalia (Landesgleichstellungsgesetz), unless there are exceptional reasons for giving preference to another applicant.

When offering the same suitability, preferential consideration shall be given to applications from suitable candidates with severe disabilities and equivalent persons pursuant to Section 2 (3) German Social Security Code, Book IX (SGB IX).

Please send your written application with relevant documents by 17th November, 2016 via post stating the reference number, addressed to the Department Human Resources of Rhine-Waal University of Applied Sciences, Marie-Curie-Str. 1, 47533 Kleve, Germany.